Electronic Communications with the Department

The Department continues to accept communications from credit unions and the public in every traditional manner. However, in recent years, the Department has experienced a shift toward receipt of a significant percentage of communications via e-mail. To improve processes and better serve credit unions and the public, the Department has established a central e-mail address for all electronic communications. CUDmail@cud.texas.gov is the Department's central mailbox for electronic communications. There is no need to "cc" individual Department staff when e-mails are sent to our central mailbox, as all electronic correspondence is logged and appropriately re-routed. Sending e-mails to the central mailbox will not only expedite the treatment of all electronic communications but will also allow us to improve efficiency. We, therefore, ask that all credit unions update their address books with CUDmail@cud.texas.gov, as the primary e-mail address for the Department.

Credit Union Online Filing Tips

Credit unions are reminded that NCUA confirms submission of Call Report data and Online Profile updates with an email that indicates the date and time the uploaded information was accepted. In addition, the successfully uploaded information will trigger two additional emails containing important information related to: (1) a Historical Warning Report; and (2) the Financial Performance Report (FPR).

The latest version of the Credit Union Online Instruction Guide can be downloaded by going to the NCUA's website or by clicking the Credit Union Online link. Additionally, NCUA has created a YouTube video guide to successfully submit call reports and profile forms through the Credit Union Online. This video can be viewed at Call Report Submission Video link.

Your Feedback Matters

The Department actively seeks feedback from credit unions and other persons seeking services from the agency in order to assure the quality of services provided and identify areas for growth. Interested persons may provide direct feedback to the Department by phone, in writing, through the portal: "Your Feedback Matters" on the Credit Union Department Homepage (<http://cud.texas.gov/front/comment/276>), or by answering one of the Department's customer satisfaction surveys.

Texas Government Code Section 2114.002 requires all state agencies in Texas to gather information from customers regarding the quality of service delivered by each agency. The Department surveys customers in compliance with the Government Code and has chosen to provide additional survey questions about examination procedures and other agency-specific areas, such as applications and complaints, in addition to the statutory queries. These supplemental survey questions provide expanded opportunities for feedback and improved relationships with credit unions and the general public.

Department surveys are anonymous and secure. The SurveyMonkey site used by the Department does not collect the email addresses or the IP addresses of participants in the survey process. Further, the questions asked by the Department in the body of the survey do not tend to identify participants. Some participants may choose to identify themselves voluntarily, or may provide information in the comments section which tends to identify them.

Dealer Referral Programs

As reported in the January 2014 Newsletter, the Department continues to see an increase in non-traditional Dealer Referral Programs in credit unions. Like any other vehicle lending program, with proper controls and sound venter management practices, these programs can benefit the credit union by growing its auto loan portfolio. However, adequate due diligence and oversight of the dealers involved in the program in combination with the development and implementation of proper internal controls to monitor the overall performance of these programs is critical to the success of a well managed program. Absent these critical elements, credit unions may be assuming significant credit risk and material exposure to losses that undermine the safety and soundness of credit union operations. In some instances, losses are being experienced at a disproportionate rate where credit unions are doing business with small independent car lots and/or non-franchised dealerships that are not affiliated with a major manufacturer. Where these programs exist, our examiners will continue to scrutinize and thoroughly review membership eligibility, collateral values, title work, loan underwriting, internal controls, and the credit union's due diligence.

Credit Union Directors' College

Director education is an essential component of good governance and effective compliance practices for credit unions. The Industry, while quite strong, continues to face challenges and opportunities. One of the keys to successfully meeting these challenges and opportunities is to have credit union management and the directors fully informed of the issues, responsibilities, rules, and regulations.

To assist credit unions in this regard, the National Association of State Credit Union Supervisors (NASCUS) and the Cornerstone Credit Union League are sponsoring a one-day educational event designed to help board members stay abreast of issues that are currently impacting their institution's financial performance, corporate governance and risk management profiles. The school is scheduled from 9:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. on Monday, November 10, 2014 at the University of Texas in Austin, Texas.

For more information, contact NASCUS Vice President of Education Isaida Woo at isaida@nascus.org.
